

FREE CASH GRANTS

FREE CASH GRANTS

Every year foundations are obligated by their charters to give away billions of dollars. This is because most of these foundations are non-profit organizations and are exempt from paying income tax. Therefore, they must give away at least five percent of their assets every year to keep the tax-free status. This money is distributed at the personal selection of the head of the foundation. Each foundation will have a preference in grants in which they will give to a specific cause. To get the grants you need you can look to other sources which can be found in your local library, such as "The Grant Register" or The "Annual Register of Grant Support Directory". Just be sure that you apply to a foundation that gives grants for your specific plan.

To request a grant:
You may need a letter of appeal, a grant proposal, or both. A letter of appeal is just a shorter version of the proposal. When requesting small funds you can simply send the letter of appeal. You only need to send the proposal when you are asked for more information, or if you are asking for 10,000 dollars or more you. Then you must send both an appeal and a proposal.

Foundations generally prefer to deal with organizations rather than individuals. But you can avoid this problem if you create your own non-profitable organization. You can request further detailed information on how to do this by writing to :

Enterprising Publishing,
BENEFICIAL BUILDING, Wilmington, DE 19804.
Ask for information on how to start a non-profit organization.

When writing a proposal the letter should be written on your letterhead and be signed by the head officer of your organization (If you belong to one) and should include the following information:

- A brief overview of the individual or organization.
- The reason(s) this grant is needed.
- The plan in which these needs will be met.
- Show the budget for your plan.
- Tell how your plan will be supported after the grant expires.

If you are an organization you must show evidence of your tax-exempt status. An audited financial statement from the organization.

Important Secret:

It is best if your proposal endorses one particular program, not for a list of different needs.

Also, keep in mind that most grants are given for scholarships or school funds, building funds, or religious purposes.

When writing an appeal Be sure it is short and to the point. A letter of appeal should basically be an outline of your plan. Here are some things you should cover in your letter of appeal (If an you are an individual then only refer to what applies to you):

- Your plan.
- State your needs.
- Describe the individual or organization.
- The financial potentials of your plan.
- List supporters.
- The total cost of your plan.
- Describe how your needs will be met.
